

Well, this is the first story I wrote. It's more like an outline for the story, but it became the story. It sucks, but the plot is good if you write the whole story out in detail. Maybe I will someday, but not now. Enjoy...

Chris and Joey are enemies, though they have hidden feelings for each other. They have a funny way of showing their affection to one another. Lance, on the other hand, is having trouble finding the right man. He's in love with Jc and Justin but they're dating. He doesn't know how to choose between them. Jc and Justin started dating in 1998 and broke up in 2000. Jc wants Justin to move on, since he was the one who broke it off. He then hooks up Lance with Justin but soon discovers he's in love with Lance, not knowing what to do.

Lance and Justin get drunk on night, and it slips that Lance has strong feelings for Jc. Justin asks who he loves more, and Lance says, "You and I aren't meant to be." They break up that night with no regrets.

After that break up, Joey and Chris have a huge fight. Justin decides to play matchmaker and sets them up on a blind date with each other. In the end, they get drunk and are so pissed they have sex together. They become a couple the days after.

Justin pulls the same thing on Lance and Jc, and the date went well. They didn't become a couple, though, until Lance finally asks Jc to be his boyfriend. He agrees.

Jc and Lance get into a huge argument and Jc storms over to Justin's. They get drunk and Jc sleeps with Justin. Chris comes over the next day and tells Jc he has to tell Lance or, "It will blow up in your face twice as bad!" Joey tells him the same thing.

Joey and Lance share a tour bus and break out the liquor after their first show. Well, Joey always tells the truth when drunk. Lance was bragging how lucky he was to have Jc and Joey says, "You know he had sex with Justin after one of your guy's fight, right?"

Lance storms up to Jc's face before the next show, and in tears, asked if it's true. Chris pulls Joey aside and gives him a good talking to as Justin hides in the dressing room. Jc tells Lance the whole story and gets a black eye. When Justin came out, yelling, "Why the hell did you punch him? We have a show in..." then gets a black eye as well.

During the whole tour, Lance avoided Jc and Justin. Justin wanted to kill himself, and Jc cried himself to sleep every night for a month after. Lance did as well. No one knew because he closeted his feelings around everyone.

Lance is so depressed he goes to a club and sleeps with a guy he met once the tour finished. Once he got home the day after, he found all of Jc's belongings gone. A note sat on the table. It read:

“I keep telling you sorry but you never listened. I love you, and if you want me gone then I will go. I hope we can still be friends.

- Josh

PS: I truly thought we were soul mates.”

All the guys lost contact with Lance after that. They go to his house, but he never answers. They call, but his voicemail is full. They email him, but they always are sent back. Jc finally realizes that Lance needs him, and goes to his house. He was the only one who had a key, but once he got there the door was open. He thought it was a robbery, but the inside was completely intact. He called Lance’s name, and hears a low moan coming from the bathroom. On the floor was a very thin Lance, with cuts on his arms. Jc wraps his arms around him, telling Lance he’s sorry and loves him. Lance mumbled something along the lines of, “Me too... soul mate.” Jc called 911, crying over Lance’s wounds. Once he hung up, he held Lance. Kissing each other, Lance confesses what he did. Jc tells him to forget it, that he forgives him. They say I love you one last time, and Lance died before the ambulance arrived. Jc refused to let go.

The guys go to Lance’s funeral. They don’t know how they are going to continue the group with out him, but try. The guys find Jc dead in his hotel room days after that fateful day, and cry till morning.

Meanwhile, in heaven:

Jc runs into Lance’s arms, telling him he died of a broken heart. A lonely heart that can’t survive as a half, and it needs a whole and now they are whole. Lance and Jc wait and watch over the others until they come to join them. They are truly soul mates.

THE END!